Numismagram Newsletter #10 (X/2018)

With autumn upon us and Halloween just around the corner, this month was of full festivals and wine tastings. First up was the always anticipated Summit Beer Fest in Sacramento--a statewide conference honoring the craft here in California and culminating in a beer fest with breweries all across the state pouring some of their finest offerings. Somewhat paralleling Oktoberfest in Germany, it is one of our unofficial kickoffs to the fall. Speaking of Oktoberfest, here is one of the items in this month's upload, dated 1874 and produced by the Viennese-based periodical, the Brewer and Hop Journal

Next up was a fun weekend with friends in Santa Rosa where, of course, there was wine tasting. Much wine tasting--it is in the heart of wine country after all. As proof, here are our tasting lists, along with some notes (on one of them) for remembering our favorites.

To cap off the weekend, we had a cookout (featuring seemingly a ton of Pacific Halibut), while enjoying the cooling temperatures of the season. Fun game--how many coin dealers can you spot in this photo...?

Finally, we rounded out the month with a welcoming home of our San José Sharks, just in time to kick off the new hockey season in early October. We were able to take part in a fan fest tailgate event where we snapped photos with some of the Sharks. Below, you'll find us with a few of the players (Tomás Hertl and Melker Karlsson), along with newly-acquired elite defenseman Erik Karlsson, looking all too comfortable pouring at the Lagunitas beer tent...

Sharks, however, aren't the only animal to figure into this month's newsletter.

There are a few highly attractive representations of horses as well--an example from Mudie's series celebrating the British entry into Egypt in order to defeat Napoleon's forces, and a couple Swedish issues from the Stuteri Öfverstyrelsen (stud farm executive board). Be sure to check these out for the cool backstory behind them...

In addition to the pieces mentioned above, this month's upload, among other things, also features a couple choice architectural types, a gem Napoleonic medal, an interesting and rare plaque from the 1904 St. Louis World's Fair, an even rarer Belgo-Dutch art medal from the 1907 Peace Conference at the Hague, and an array of offerings for the collector of Washingtoniana.

Lastly, you may have noticed that last month's and this month's uploads are a bit bigger than previous months. Starting with our September upload, we have increased from 14 items to 20, as we are continuing to increase our buying and subsequent offerings. In addition to this increase, be on the lookout for a special spooktacular group of items to be offered later this month as we approach Halloween. If you've been a fan of our skulls-and-skeletons theme, you'll be in for a treat (not a trick).
